Dearest Friends of the Family:

The world has changed, and many of those changes are here to stay. At Jewish Family Services, we meet the complex needs of those who walk through our doors. We proudly served 11,300 people this year.

In March, we went into crisis mode. Luckily, as one of our long-time staff members put it, “We did not panic!”

And then COVID-19 reared its ugly head. Staff renewed their commitment to our essential—and even sacred—work.

Our finances remained relatively strong despite some hits, and an energized board and staff worked together—working from home—fleshing out our vision for increasing client access to services through technology-driven on-demand medical visits for Holocaust Survivors and launching new workforce programs for the elderly and small business owners.

Dear Friends of the Family,

In the spring of 2019, our staff envisioned and began working on a solution for Holocaust Survivors in Central Ohio to have on-demand medical visits. In March 2020, when our doors were closed due to COVID-19, this solution became even more critical.

Within a week, our team began contactless delivery of healthy food, PPE, and other household necessities and our “friendly visitor” program shifted to virtual visits. Staff continuously assessed clients’ evolving needs and found new ways to meet them—within the safety of their homes.

Phase III of the project will involve building out the technology infrastructure that will bring all our content together online so it is available when, how and where clients need it. We also launched a new pilot addressing digital equity, to ensure that 1/3 of the year was during the initial stages of the pandemic and lockdown. Our return on investment was dramatic: the taxes alone nearly doubled our funders’ workforce program investments of $2.9 million.

Jewish Family Services helped 703 people obtain employment, generating $233 million in wages earned and $5.7 million in Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid contributions paid into the Social Security trust fund. Our work has significant local economic impact and a strong return on investment: In our 2020 fiscal year, Jewish Family Services helped 11,300 individuals obtain employment, generating $233 million in wages earned and $5.7 million in Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid contributions paid into the Social Security trust fund.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Tracey Ballas is an outstanding example of the many ways one person can make a difference in our organization, and in the lives of the people we serve.

A talented and dedicated network of volunteers supports Jewish Family Services. We are grateful to the countless volunteers who generously give of their time and talents to our mission.

This year, in the midst of the pandemic, we have received a special gift from Tracey Ballas.

Tracey Ballas, of Columbus, Ohio, has been a consistent and dedicated volunteer for Jewish Family Services in multiple capacities, including serving on the Board of Directors and joining the team of volunteers supporting Holocaust Survivors.

Now more than ever, our community needs the support of Jewish Family Services to help job seekers reconnect to jobs to fuel our recovering economy.

The job seeking process can be exhausting, soul crushing and riddled with financial uncertainty. However, Tracey Ballas, as Director of Workforce Services, provides a valuable resource for job seekers and engages them in a community of support and employment opportunities.

“With the help of Tracey’s mentorship and industry knowledge, job seekers are able to use the platform of the Jewish Family Services to learn new career skills and re-enter the job market with greater confidence,” said Dr. Susan Fischel, President and CEO of Jewish Family Services.

Tracey Ballas is strongly committed to mentoring job seekers and helping them grow their careers. She is a dedicated professional who brings passion and expertise to her role.

Tracey Ballas is an extraordinary volunteer, who not only donates her time to support our mission, but also shares her personal experience to help others.

Her dedication is remarkable, and we are deeply grateful for her commitment to Jewish Family Services.

Tracey Ballas is a shining example of the power of volunteerism and the impact it can have on our community. Thank you, Tracey, for all you do.
